Violence rules weekend

One dead, 8 injured in rash of shootings, stabbings around city

A young man is dead and at least eight other people wounded in a weekend of violence that left Toronto streets littered with bullets and blood.

But homicide Det.-Sgt. Steve Ryan said he isn't prepared to concede it's going to be another Summer Of The Gun.

"Crime waves come and they go," he said next to the blood-stained sidewalk where a man in his mid-20s was gunned down early yesterday outside a Jane Street pizzeria.

"So this is just one of those summer weekends," he said, adding the 26 homicides so far this year are less than at the same time last year.

Ryan is probing the shooting death of a man outside a 2-4-1 Pizza shop on Jane Street at Woolner Avenue about 1:30 a.m.

He said two men were sitting atop hydro meters outside the shop when they got hungry for a slice.

"His friend went to get some pizza, and as his friend left him there, he was shot by an unknown person in the chest," Ryan said.

Ryan said it was unlikely the slaying was a random attack. Police were withholding his name until relatives could be found.

Three people were wounded at a party in a townhouse in the east end about 3:30 a.m. When police arrived at the Kingston and Markham roads area bash, they found a woman in her 40s who had been shot in the hip, a man in his 30s shot in the arm and another man in his 20s shot in the foot.

A third shooting left one person wounded in the Steeles Avenue West-Highway 400 area as another party was breaking up at 5:30 a.m. Shots were fired at the dispersing crowd and one man was hit. He drove to a nearby hospital and is expected to survive.

Four people wounded in separate stabbings suffered non-life-threatening injuries.

Taxpayers picking up Tory tabs

When Defence Minister Peter MacKay flew to British Columbia in January, he split his time between government business and two Tory fundraising gigs. Taxpayers footed the bill.

When then-Indian affairs minister Jim Prentice flew east to Nova Scotia to meet with provincial chiefs, he also headlined a Conservative fundraising dinner in Prince Edward Island. Taxpayers paid for the trip.

The federal Conservatives — elected on promises to be squeaky clean — are using government resources to help fill their fast growing election war chest.

The Toronto Star found 25 examples of Conservative ministers mixing fundraising and department business, each trip typically costing taxpayers several thousand dollars, though complete costs are not disclosed.

Democracy Watch co-ordinator Duff Connacher wants the current government to clean up its act.

"It's a privilege to travel on taxpayers' dime, not a right. The (political) party should be paying for part of these trips," said Connacher.

Families grieving for sons

Lifelong friends shot to death Friday night

The families of two young men shot to death outside a friend's condominium Friday night in a seemingly unprovoked attack are "pushing through" their grief and trying to plan two funerals.

"We're going through the motions," Alan Dudek, stepfather of Oliver Martin, one of the victims, said yesterday. "We're doing what needs to be done."

Martin and his lifelong friend, Dylan Ellis, both 25, were gunned down in a parent's Range Rover.

Yesterday, cars of friends and relatives still lined the streets near the Ellis home in Rosedale. Martin's family consoled one another at their home a 10-minute walk away.

lone suspect

» Detectives have not yet found a motive for the killing. Their only suspect is a man wearing a light-coloured top and black pants seen riding south from the scene, possibly on a mountain bike.

Since a gunman opened fire on the men, family and friends have wept openly, laying flowers at the scene and embracing. But few have talked publicly about the victims, both from affluent homes. Ellis, the grandson of a prominent Toronto philanthropist, was an aspiring photographer. Martin was an investment banker.

They were each shot in the chest around 12:10 a.m., seconds after stopping outside a condo building on Richmond Street West, near Trinity Bellwoods Park. The victims and a woman sitting in the back seat behind tinted windows had left a party at the building moments earlier. The trio returned to drop off a set of keys taken in error. Ellis and Martin never had a chance to exchange them. The woman was uninjured.

Thousands aid bone marrow search

About 2,000 people came from across southern Ontario in the hopes of helping one Chinese woman whose life hinges on finding a bone marrow transplant match within the next few weeks.

There were long lines for tests in four centres in Toronto, and parking lots were overflowing with cars.

They were strangers to Carolyn Tam, who has fought a courageous battle against leukemia for over a year.

But they were eager to help. Annie Li, who came to Canada seven years ago, said she learned about Tam's story on Friday after watching TV.

"I would feel lucky if I turn out to be a match and save Carolyn's life," said Li.

A worldwide search for a compatible stem cell donor failed in April. A last-ditch effort to save Tam's life has been launched in Vancouver, Toronto, Hong Kong, San Francisco and New York.

"I have been moved by so many generous fellow Chinese," said Madellina Lau, mother of the 37-year-old Tam, as she tried to hold back her tears.

A total of 150 volunteers helped organize the registry and testing, with each test costing close to $60.

Upgrades planned for Rouge Park

APPROVED "You're in the middle of the city of Toronto, between Toronto and Pickering, and this is what you see," Rouge Park general manager Lewis Yeager says, gazing out at the many shades of green in Glen Eagles Vista in Rouge Park.

Earlier this month, the Rouge Park Alliance approved a seven-year plan for further park development. Next year, park staff and volunteers will begin planting trees and building meadows and wetlands on 700 hectares of the park.

The process will cost $5 million and won't please everyone — some farmers resent having land they've rented and worked for decades go to trees.

Uneasy alliance

Group finds GTA municipalities tough to unite

The eggshell-coloured walls in Lou Milrad's spartan office in downtown Toronto are in keeping with his latest job.

As the recently named chief executive of the Greater Toronto Marketing Alliance, Milrad is walking on proverbial eggshells. His job: Using the heft of Greater Toronto to attract international investment to the whole region.

But Milrad must be a deft diplomat as he tries to serve a fractured client base that doesn't always see the advantages of a united front: municipalities that compete for investment among themselves, as well as private firms more likely to form alliances based on sector than on allegiance to the GTA.

Milrad is a lawyer whose clients have included municipal governments, hospitals and school boards. He's well aware of the intersecting groups and the tensions that sometimes develop. "My background is bringing together diverse groups of people and getting them to operate as a team."

Brit warship found in lake

HMS Ontario almost intact 228 years after sinking

A British warship that sank in Lake Ontario 228 years ago during the War of Independence has been found almost intact by two shipwreck hunters.

"This is the Holy Grail of Great Lakes wrecks," said Jim Kennard who, with his partner Dan Scoville, discovered the 22-gun brig-sloop HMS Ontario in deep water "somewhere" between Niagara and Rochester. "There's nothing more significant than this one."

"It's the oldest confirmed shipwreck in the lakes," Scoville added. "And very few warships went down. The Ontario is so complete, the two masts are in place and there's still glass in some of its windows."

The ship was a few hours into a voyage from Fort Niagara on Oct. 31, 1780, when it foundered in a sudden, violent storm. It was launched the previous May and may never have fired its guns in anger. It spent the summer ferrying troops and supplies around the lake.

"We're not saying exactly where it is," Kennard said. "It's a British war grave and we want to make sure it remains undisturbed."

HMS Ontario, 24.5 metres long with masts about the same height, went down with some 120 men, women and children on board. Only six bodies were ever found.

Fares cut for some GO routes

In a move against the flow of traffic, GO Transit is making some commutes shorter and cheaper.

Thanks to new services reducing the distance travelled, passengers on several routes will see fares drop by as much as 50 per cent on June 28, GO's board said Friday.

A new bus service will take passengers from Milton to the Bronte station on the Lakeshore West rail line. The trip will cost $4.90.

Previously, commuters wanting to make that trip had to travel all the way into Union Station and then switch to the Lakeshore West line. The cost was $13.10.

Soldiers seek help after allegedly witnessing rape

soldier's account

» The independent claims bolster the credibility of an account provided by Cpl. Travis Schouten, a Canadian soldier who served in Afghanistan and now suffers from severe post-traumatic stress disorder.

Canadian soldiers serving in Afghanistan have been ordered by commanding officers "to ignore" incidents of sexual assault among the civilian population, says a military chaplain who counsels troops returning home with post-traumatic stress disorder.

The chaplain, Jean Johns, says she recently counselled a Canadian soldier who said he witnessed a boy being raped by an Afghan soldier, then wrote a report on the allegation for her brigade chaplain.

Johns says the corporal told her Canadian troops have been ordered by commanding officers "to ignore" incidents of sexual assault.

While several Canadian Forces chaplains say other soldiers have made similar claims, Department of National Defence lawyers have argued Canada isn't obliged to probe because none of the soldiers has made a formal complaint, says a senior Canadian officer. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

First-degree murder allegation in death of daughter

By ROBYN YOUNG
Metro Halifax

PAUL DARROW/ REUTERS

Penny Boudreau, left, has been charged with the first-degree murder of her daughter, Karissa.

Bridgewater residents breathed a sigh of relief yesterday after hearing the news Saturday that Penny Boudreau had been charged in the murder of her daughter Karissa.

"I was at a banquet last night and the chairperson got up and announced it," said Annette Chipman who was enjoying a peaceful picnic with a friend along the LaHave River not far from where the young girl's body was found Feb. 9.

"Everyone cheered," she said.

The last time Penny Boudreau made a public appearance she tearfully pleaded for the 12-year-old girl to come home.

But today she will appear in Bridgewater provincial court to face charges of first-degree murder in Karissa Boudreau's death.

Sgt. Mark Gallagher with the RCMP said police are relieved to have finally had the chance to lay charges in the case.

"As time goes on … there'll be a lot more clarity," he added.

At a press conference Saturday afternoon, RCMP officers and the Bridgewater police told reporters they had arrested Boudreau in Halifax Friday evening.

"We do not expect anyone else to be charged in this case," said Bridgewater police chief Brent Crowhurst.

Boudreau reported her daughter missing Jan. 27, telling police the last time she saw her was in the parking lot of the Bridgewater Sobeys. She said they had argued and when she returned, she said, Karissa was gone.

Prisoner to receive honour for HIV work

Educates inmates on risks of getting diseases

An Ontario man serving a life sentence for killing a policeman is to be honoured for years of efforts to educate prison inmates about how to lower their risk of becoming infected with HIV.

The Canadian HIV-AIDS Legal Network and Human Rights Watch is to announce today that they are giving their 2008 Canadian Award for Action on HIV/AIDS and Human Rights to Peter Collins, the groups have revealed.

Collins, 46, has spent the last 25 years in jail for killing an Ottawa policeman during a botched armed robbery. Just last week Collins, who is incarcerated at Bath Institution, a medium security prison about 20 kilometres west of Kingston, learned his second application for parole had been denied.

Peter Collins wasn't immediately available for interview. But his father, Michael Collins, said learning that Peter was being honoured for his advocacy for health services and HIV prevention tools for fellow inmates made him proud of his son.

Can You Really Make $10,000+ a Month on eBay?

By James Hyder
Financial Reporter

Let me start off with a confession. When I was asked to research and write an article about the money-making power of eBay, I sincerely thought I'd discover that it was all fiction. Was I ever wrong.

First, a little background on eBay and what it does. It was started on September 3, 1995 by French-born Iranian computer programmer Pierre Omidyar in his San Jose, California living room. Almost immediately the site took off and is now the world's largest online marketplace with over 250 million registered users worldwide. And this number keeps growing every day.

eBay is the "ultimate global marketplace" connecting sellers to a massive ready-made customer base that does not care about how old or young you are, whether you are male or female, how much education you have, whether you are disabled, the colour of your skin, what your name is, where you were born, or even where you live.

Sellers can list almost anything on eBay… art, antiques, books, cameras, cars, clothing, computers, crafts, furniture, jewellery, music, real estate, sporting goods, tickets, travel, watches and hundreds of other items.

"eBay is great for the economy because it gives sellers a platform for pursuing entrepreneurialism on a global scale," says Marsha Collier, eBay selling expert and author of the book eBay for Dummies.

Canada is actually an ideal location for an eBay business. We are perceived internationally as trustworthy and we are next door the world's largest base of eBay buyers the USA.

It is estimated that over 1.3 million sellers around the world use eBay as their primary or significant secondary source of income.

But there's even better news. As the economy slows, even more buyers are turning to eBay.

So, who are these people who make $2,000, $5,000 or $10,000 or even more cash each month on eBay? Are they computer wizards or nerds? Nothing could be further from the truth.

Here is the reality. 95% of eBay sellers are individuals or small businesses. They are regular folks like you and me who just got fed up with the rat race and discovered they could make more money in less time, and have fun doing it. Others were fired or laid-off and then were fortunate enough or smart enough to turn to eBay.

What does it take to become a successful eBay seller? Here's what I learned from the top sellers I talked to.

First, invest a little time and money upfront to learn the "tricks of the trade." It will save you hours of frustration and get you making money much faster. There are some good workshops and coaching programs that can really help and make a difference. Some sellers said they sharpened their skills by attending a course. They learnt how to add additional revenue sources to their eBay business.

Second, if you haven't bought something on eBay, visit the site and make a few bids. See how it works, and make sure you win at least one item. That way you'll understand the whole process.

And third, have fun. Virtually all of the sellers I spoke with were having the time of their lives. One of them said it best. "I never thought earning a living could be so much fun!"

Bush pushes Britain to keep troops in Iraq

U.S. president to hold talks with British PM today

U.S. President George W. Bush says Britain should not unravel the work of coalition forces in Iraq by withdrawing troops too early.

Bush, who is due to hold talks with British Prime Minister Gordon Brown in London today, is quoted by the Observer newspaper as saying there should be no "definitive timetable" for troop reductions.

His comments followed a British Broadcasting Corporation report that Britain could set a date for the withdrawal of its soldiers from Iraq within months.

Karzai takes tough stand on Pakistan

Afghanistan's president responded yesterday to a devastating insurgent attack in Kandahar city with threats to send troops into Pakistan.

The warning from Hamid Karzai came as residents of Kandahar voiced despair over a fiery prison attack that sent hundreds of suspected Taliban inmates spilling into the general population.

Pakistan said it would not allow anyone to interfere with its territory, and called it an impossible task to seal the notoriously porous mountain frontier.

Canadian Defence Minister Peter MacKay has also expressed frustration with Pakistan, but he urged a diplomatic solution to the dispute yesterday. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Party fears Lieberman

Criticizes Obama, campaigns for McCain

Joe Lieberman is fast becoming the Democrats' public enemy No. 1.

The four-term Connecticut senator, who came tantalizingly close to being Al Gore's vice-president in 2000, not only has been campaigning for his pal, presumed Republican nominee John McCain, but also has taken to publicly criticizing the Democrats' standard-bearer, Barack Obama.

» Obama had backed Lieberman in the 2006 Democratic Senate primary in Connecticut. After he lost to Ned Lamont, Lieberman defied party leaders and ran as an independent in the general election.

Lieberman has strayed before, most notably switching from Democrat to independent in 2006 to hold his Senate seat after a Democratic primary loss. But the latest betrayal has upset Democrats. The reason: The independent still caucuses with the Democrats on most issues except the Iraq war, and he holds their slim political majority in his hands.

Lieberman has wasted no time in questioning Obama's positions on Iran and Israel, two topics on which Lieberman and McCain agree.

Lieberman accused Obama of blaming U.S. policies for "essentially sort of strengthening" Iran.

Later that day, during a budget vote in the Senate, Obama led Lieberman to a corner of the Senate floor for a pointed private conversation.

Japan quake toll climbs to nine

The death toll in Saturday's magnitude-7.2 earthquake that rattled northern Japan has risen to nine.

Soldiers fighting through a torrent of mud and rocks dug three bodies from a hot spring resort yesterday. Seven people are believed buried by a landslide at the Komanoyu hot spring after the side of a hill came crashing down on the two-storey inn where they were staying.

At least 200 others were injured and officials say at least a dozen people are still missing in the quake zone. About a dozen people remained missing in the quake zone.

Priests exchange marriage vows

INVESTIGATION The Anglican bishop of London, England, is looking into news reports that two gay priests exchanged rings and vows in a church ceremony last month in violation of Anglican guidelines.

The Sunday Telegraph says Rev. Peter Cowell and Rev. David Lord exchanged rings and read each other poetry during the service at St. Bartholomew the Great, one of London's oldest churches.

Tomatoes back at fast-food chains

Canadian outlets pulled item after salmonella scare

Tomatoes are back on the menu at various Canadian restaurants.

Several fast-food chains and grocery stores in Canada and the U.S. temporarily removed selected varieties of tomatoes as a precaution a week ago after some red plum, red Roma and round-red varieties were linked to the rare salmonella saintpaul outbreak in the U.S.

background

» Since April, at least 228 illnesses in 23 U.S. states have been linked to the tainted tomatoes and may have been a factor in the death of a Texas cancer patient who had the same salmonella strain.

But now Boston Pizza, Tim Hortons and Cara Operations, which operates Swiss Chalet Rotisserie & Grill, Milestone's Grill and Bar, Montana's Cookhouse, Kelsey's Neighbourhood Bar & Grill, Harvey's and Coza! Tuscan Grill, are once again offering fresh sliced tomatoes to customers. Priszm, which owns and operates Pizza Hut, Taco Bell and KFC in Canada, has also allowed the return of tomatoes.

McDonald's Corp. said Saturday its U.S. restaurants will re-introduce sliced tomatoes in the next 10 days.

Saudis will boost oil production: UN chief

King believes prices too high

UN chief Ban Ki-moon says Saudi Arabia's king is ready to help restore soaring world oil prices to more "appropriate" levels.

» Saudi Arabia is reportedly concerned that sustained high oil prices will slacken the appetite for oil, affecting the kingdom in the long run.

The UN secretary general spoke after meeting King Abdullah during a one-day trip to the world's largest oil producer.

The official Saudi News Agency quoted Ban as telling reporters that the king believes current oil prices are abnormally high. Saudi Arabia has called for a meeting of oil producing and consuming countries on June 22 in Jidda to discuss the issue.

The New York Times, citing unnamed analysts and oil traders briefed by Saudi officials, reported Saturday that the Saudis plan to announce a production increase of about 500,000 barrels a day.

Crude prices have reached record highs and topped $139 US a barrel on June 6.

Turkey overcomes two-goal deficit to reach quarter-finals

EURO2008

Turkey joined the growing list of quarter-finalists at the European Championship yesterday, capping an incredible comeback with two late goals from Nihat Kahveci to beat the Czech Republic 3-2 and claim second place in Group A.

Nihat equalized for the Turks in the 87th minute and then added another in the 89th to send the 2002 World Cup semifinalists into the knockout rounds. Turkey, which also rallied to beat Switzerland, will face Group B winner Croatia in the quarter-finals on Friday in Vienna.

Portugal, which had already assured itself of first place in Group A, lost to already-eliminated Switzerland 2-0 in Basel. Hakan Yakin scored both goals in the second half for the co-hosts against a second-string Portuguese lineup.

Arda Turan started the Turkish comeback with a goal in the 75th minute, taking a pass from Hamit Altintop and banging his shot in off the post.

Nihat then took advantage of an unlikely blunder from goalkeeper Petr Cech, who fumbled a simple cross and allowed the Villarreal forward to shoot the ball into an empty net. With the match looking like it would be decided on penalties, Nihat scored another with a shot that bounced off the post.

"At that moment, I just thought of shooting to where I saw," Nihat said. "It went well and it got in, thank God."

Tiger forces playoff with clutch birdie

Woods, Mediate to play 18 today

Rocco Mediate and Tiger Woods finished in a tie at the U.S. Open yesterday, forcing an 18-hole playoff for the first time since 2001.

Mediate

The playoff at Torrey Pines in San Diego will be today. Woods will try to win his 14th major, while Mediate, 45, will try to become the oldest player to win the U.S. Open. The U.S. Open is the only major to play an 18-hole playoff. The last time it happened was seven years ago, when Retief Goosen beat Mark Brooks at Southern Hills.

Woods shot 2-over 73 to tie Mediate at 1-under 283.

Mediate shot even-par 71. He had a chance to win the tournament on No. 18, but his 30-foot birdie putt curled off just to the right.

Lilly haunts Blue Jays

Pitcher helps Cubs take 2 of 3 in T.O.

CUBS 7 BLUE JAYS 4

The ex-Blue Jays on the Chicago Cubs sure stuck it to their former team over the weekend.

A day after Reed Johnson helped send Roy Halladay to defeat, Ted Lilly returned to the Rogers Centre mound yesterday afternoon and baffled his former teammates in a 7-4 interleague victory.

Lilly

"It's nice to come in here and pitch well and everything but I'm not going to take it much further than that," said Lilly. "I need to win games for this team and that's it."

Johnson also did some damage in the series finale, catching three balls on the warning track in left field while singling and scoring in the decisive three-run third against Jesse Litsch. The outfielder, released by the Blue Jays in March, hit a three-run homer that was pivotal in Saturday's 6-2 Chicago victory.

Lilly then piled on more misery for the Blue Jays before a crowd of 40,738. The loss capped a dreadful 3-6 homestand that left them below .500, and they've now lost 10 times in their last 14 games after dropping two of three to the Cubs.

Contaminants poison reserves

EARTH TONES
SOPHIA DORE & ANDREW LAURSEN
earthtones.metro@gmail.com

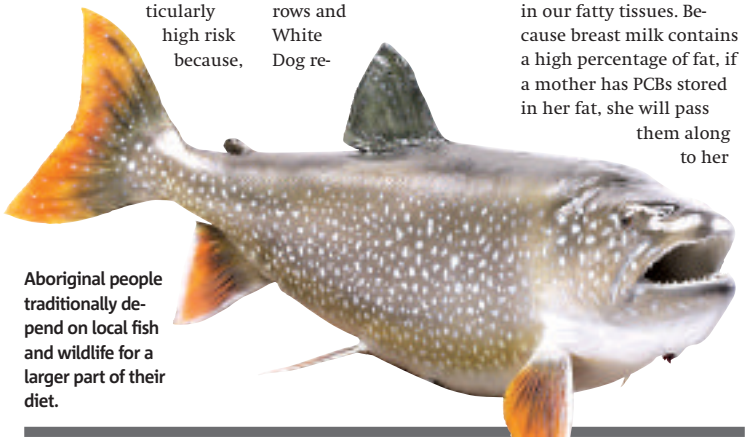
Last week, the country was abuzz with the news that Stephen Harper had at last offered an official apology to the Aboriginal people of Canada for the atrocities that occurred in residential schools. Aboriginal leaders were, in general, receptive to the apology but point out the conditions on First Nations reserves are in many cases abysmal and action is needed to improve conditions and salvage what remains of the traditional way of life.

One contributing factor in the erosion of the traditional lifestyle and therefore culture is environmental degradation on reserves. Unlike the residential schools, the deterioration of the environment affects all of us. However, Aboriginal people are at particularly high risk because, traditionally, they depend on local fish and wildlife for a larger part of their diet. In the 1970s, the Grassy Narrows and White Dog reserves made headlines when large numbers of people living on these reserves were found to be suffering from mercury poisoning. This poisoning was traced to high mercury levels in waterways on the reserves, which led to high mercury levels in fish that were consumed by reserve residents.

Unfortunately, the experience of the Grassy Narrows and White Dog reserve residents is not unique. The construction of hydroelectric plants along the St. Lawrence River has led to the contamination of the river and land along the river in Ontario, Quebec, and northern New York state with PCBs.

PCBs are a particular problem for people who eat local fish and wildlife because they bioaccumulate. PCBs are not very soluble in water but are very soluble in fat. Therefore, when PCBs enter a small fish's body, rather than being excreted, they are stored in the small fish's fatty tissues. If a larger fish eats 100 small fish it will then store all the PCBs from the 100 small fish in its fatty tissues.

If we then come along and eat 10 large fish, we will then be storing the PCB from 1,000 small fish in our fatty tissues. Because breast milk contains a high percentage of fat, if a mother has PCBs stored in her fat, she will pass them along to her child in breast milk. This is what has happened at the Akwesasne Mohawk Nation. The Akwesasne people had to stop eating local fish and wildlife because of the PCB levels that were found in their bodies and, in doing so, part of their culture was taken away.



Aboriginal people traditionally depend on local fish and wildlife for a larger part of their diet.

> «The Akwesasne people had to stop eating local fish and wildlife because of the PCB levels that were found in their bodies and, in doing so, part of their culture was taken away.»

These problems persist on reserves to the present day. The Aamjiwnaang First Nation reserve near Sarnia is located in the heart of petrochemical manufacturing country. Its soil and water has been found to be contaminated with dioxins, PCBs, pesticides, and metals. The Aamjiwnaang people have to put up with odours, are unable to swim or fish in their rivers and have high rates of asthma in children.

Speaking of children, at the Aamjiwnaang First Nation, two girls were born for every boy and it is hypothesized that endocrine disrupters were to blame for this.

We have highlighted three cases of extreme environmental stresses on First Nations people, however, the problem is pervasive and collectively all Canadians, including Aboriginal people, will need to find a way to solve it.

Network while you work

Connections most important in job search: Experts

By RAFAEL BRUSILOW
for Metro Toronto

When looking for a job, who you know is often just as important as what you know.

Make no bones about it, networking isn't just a buzzword — it's a crucial way to make sure you know the right people when the time comes to find a job.

Jon Veale, a division director at staffing and consulting firm Robert Half International, says networking — finding, meeting and staying in touch with new people in your field — is one of the most effective ways of finding a job because people tend to prefer candidates who (not surprisingly) they have known can be successful. If they've working with you or heard about your successes, you can have a big advantage when it comes to finding a new job.

Veale says you should be doing some kind of networking on a daily basis — whether it's as involved as attending an industry meeting or as benign as passing along a useful news link over e-mail.

"The important thing is to lay the groundwork when you have a job so that you're not left shorthanded when it comes time to look for a job," Veale said.

Of course, you can't neglect your work or you risk becoming unproductive or, worse, disloyal. The key is not to think of networking as something you do instead of other things, but rather something you remember to do alongside other things.

"It's not so much networking to get something, it's doing something and networking while you're doing it," Veale said.

Make sure to always project your best side in all situations, especially work-related ones, and have something interesting ready to say when someone asks you what you do.

"Have an elevator pitch — how you can present yourself to someone in a minute or less without being too canned or contrived. It should always be organic in delivery but have a few points you want to get to so that people are thinking about you when opportunities arise in the field," Veale said.

Don't bore people with forced details about how great you are, though. Instead, give them the proverbial microphone so you can build a conversational bond.

"You never want to be talking too much about yourself. Ensure that you're getting people talking, let them talk and listen actively to their answers," Veale said.

Networking is the key to staying employed, a study suggests.

A night to remember

Hedley wins big at MuchMusic Video Awards

By BRIAN COULTON
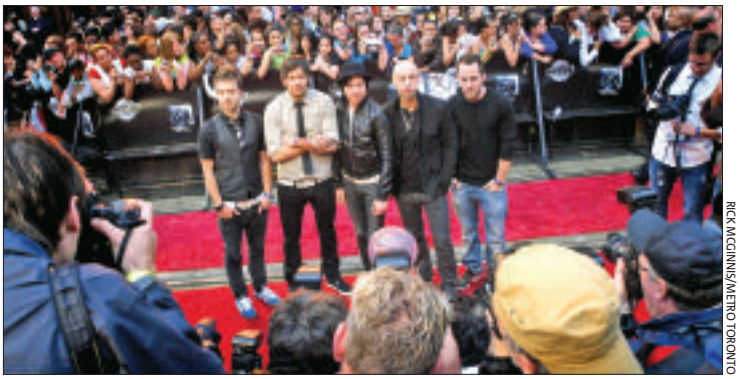
for Metro Toronto



RICK MCGINNIS/METRO TORONTO

Montreal band Simple Plan arrives on the red carpet for the MuchMusic Video Awards last night.

Thousands of fans braved heavy rain to fill the streets surrounding the red carpet at the 2008 MuchMusic Video Award last night.

Maybe it was the presence of Umbrella songstress Rihanna or that of Rainn Wilson, a.k.a. The Office's Dwight Schrute, but the weather failed to deter musicians and celebrities from attending the annual music video awards show.

Hedley was the night's big victor, with a total of four wins. The B.C.-based quartet picked up trophies for Best Video and Best Director for For The Nights I Can't Remember and honours for Best Cinematography and MuchLOUD Best Rock Video for She's So Sorry.

Barbados-born R&B star Rihanna also fared well, taking home awards for Best International Video Artist for Don't Stop The Music and MuchMusic.com Most Watched Video for Umbrella. References to the coincidence of her hit single and the first-ever red carpet rain-out of the ceremony were nearly unavoidable.

Despite the inclement weather, Toronto's illScarlett proceeded to illuminate the roof of the MuchMusic headquarters. The reggae-ska-rock band performed outdoors against a light show spectacle atop the building.

But the most-watched for act of the night was undoubtedly New Kids On The Block. The reunited 1990s boy band made its first televised Canadian performance since reforming; a sight anticipated by many red carpet dwellers.

And while boy bands from illScarlett, Simple Plan, Hedley and New Kids were in full force, girl power didn't fail to find its place at Much.

An appearance by former Sporty Spice Girl, British singer Melanie C, and a performance by the less dressed Pussycat Doll prodigy, Girlicious, represented the evolution of women in pop music over the past 10 years.

How colour choices can alter mood

Did you know that paint choices can have a serious impact on mood? Well, if colour psychologists are to be believed, choosing the right tone will help you balance emotions and lead a fuller life. Here's the inside scoop on how to choose a palette that's right for you:

COLIN & JUSTIN'S INTERIOR DIVINE

BLUE: Blue aids relaxation and promotes a calm, spiritual feel. Use it in bedrooms to soothe, in kids' rooms to focus the mind and in bathrooms to promote a feeling of well being. It's also considered an appetite suppressant — we kid you not! — maybe it could be the perfect choice in the kitchen if you're counting calories!

RED: If a rise in sexual response is what you're after then make red your colour of choice. But be careful — you'll find a little goes a long way. Use as an accent rather than your dominant colour. Deep reds promote appetite and conversation, making them great for dining rooms, whereas orange-red and brown-red shades (like terracotta and brick) are cozy, warm and stimulating.

YELLOW: The colour of sun, yellow will make you happy and has been shown to increase metabolism. But it's also been noted that people lose their tempers and babies cry more often in yellow rooms. So perhaps it's not ideal (in brighter tones anyway) in a nursery! Great for kitchens and bathrooms, especially teamed with white.

GREEN: The colour of the forest, green calms, relaxes and has a healing effect. What's more, it's said to relieve depression and anxiety. But remember — don't use too dark a tone, or your home will end up feeling like the local library. Sage, olive and lime are currently very popular and even pastels are making a comeback. You heard it here first!

PURPLE: Signifying opulence and spirituality, purple is seriously hedonistic. From sexy aubergine to soft lavender, and mauve to sophisticated lilac, there's a tone for everyone. Team with white, grey and silver, add a feature wall of dramatic lavender wallpaper or dot your home with deep purple cushions and throws as an introduction to this thoroughly regal tone.

GREYS/BLACK: Storm clouds and rainy days — the perfect choice for grumpy teenagers? Or a mood board inspired by city suits, military precision and the little black dress? We love this palette and find it timeless, elegant and sophisticated. But better still — monochrome is reckoned to increase productivity in the home office! Count us in for the executive lounge.

PINK: Pink used to be considered girly but, thanks to the bright shirts of smart businessmen (at least those with a sense of fun) it's now also adored by blokes. Colour scientists often advocate pink for use in prisons (to subdue aggressive behaviour) so it's sure to bring harmony to your home. But go easy, or run the risk of turning your home into a Dolly Parton-inspired marshmallow nightmare.

Colin & Justin's The Home Show, airs Tuesdays at 11 p.m. and Saturdays at 4 p.m. ET on HGTV. www.hgtv.ca

Ting Tings bring DIY ethic to T.O.

By BRIAN COULTON
for Metro Toronto

In Mandarin, their name means bandstand. In Cantonese, it's "listen listen". In Jamaica, they'd be two bottles of a grapefruit flavoured pop. But as one British duo so energetically try to tell us on their emphatically danceable, drum-driven single, that's not their name.

Their name is The Ting Tings and they're comprised of occasional bass drumming singer-guitarist Katie White and sometimes singing, strumming drummer, Jules De Martino. Near-overnight stars in their native England, the pair debuted at number one in the UK with their record We Started Nothing that includes the song Shut Up And Let Me Go, featured in the latest domestic iPod commercial.

concert alert
» The Ting Tings play the Mod Club Theatre tonight.

While their songs may sound commanding thus far, it's no wonder. De Martino says frustration is a driving lyrical theme on their album, derived from the demise of their heavily label-run previous band, Dear Eskiimo.

Jules De Martino and Katie White of The Ting Tings.

"We were cutting and chopping everything. We had 30 songs and tried to whittle them down to an album and we didn't get a record out," says De Martino of Dear Eskiimo's struggle. With The Ting Tings, he says he and White are showcasing what they've learned from their musical experience, doing it their way instead of trying to pen the perfect pop song.

"That's where a lot of our strength as a unit comes from - what we've been through in the past," says De Martino. "This band is very much about having enough patience and throwing things against the wall how we want them. If they stick that's exactly how it will stand."

De Martino's self-focused perspective is substantiated by the fact that The Ting Tings truly do it all themselves. From producing their own album and creating their own artwork to putting out their own records before being signed, De Martino says the twosome takes initiative because of their shared tenacity.

"The Ting Tings is just simply, selfishly about me and Katie," he says. "When we plug in, we have to find the energy, because there's only two of us."

And even though the band went from playing crowds of 500 to more than double that — the latter all chanting their lyrics — in just five weeks, De Martino says their dynamic remains the same. "That energy has to be there and it's what makes the gig for us. What we get out of it is reaching that thing where we're really rocking out. It's nirvana."

First-time winners triumph at comics awards

By JONATHAN P. KUEHLEIN
Metro Toronto

Whether they've just entered the field or been in it for over 20 years, the winners of this year's Joe Shuster Awards all share one thing in common: an ear-to-ear smile.

Twelve of the 13 Canadian comic book creator awards given out at the fourth annual ceremony in Toronto on Saturday night went to first-time winners. Veteran illustrator Dale Eaglesham, a resident of Vankleek Hill, Ont., between Ottawa and Montreal, called winning the outstanding Canadian artist award, primarily for his work on DC Comics' critically acclaimed series, Justice Society Of America: "the highlight of my career."

The only non-first-timer was Montreal's Drawn And Quarterly, which won its third consecutive award for outstanding Canadian publisher.

For a full list of winners visit metronews.ca.

RICK McGINNIS

TALES FROM THE DOUBLEKNIT WASTELAND: Almost two weeks ago, CBS' new summer drama Swingtown debuted to great numbers — 8.6 million viewers, according to the Hollywood Reporter, even though the stiffest competition it was up against that night, in the bleary aftermath of an especially unimpressive primetime season, was a horror anthology on NBC.

Even debuting a sexy drama about spouse-swapping suburbanites in the summer of the U.S. Bicentennial in the first flush of summer has an indelibly '70s feel about it, and I was there, baby, a TV junkie in my early teens, glued to the half-dozen channels our backyard antenna pulled in for some clues to the increasingly confusing world around me. There are a lot of things Swingtown gets right, and a lot it gets wrong, but it's already working with a handicap as the near-definitive retrospective take on the decade has already been made — Ang Lee's 1997 movie version of Rick Moody's novel The Ice Storm.

There's a distinct network cheesiness to Swingtown that actually gives it a rather mind-blowing approximation of what Moody's novel might have been like if it were a '70s TV series and not a book. Thirty years ago, CBS would have been obliged to be a lot more moralistic in its treatment of the Millers, Bruce and Susan, who haul themselves a couple of notches up the middle-class ladder and find themselves in the well-upholstered lap of the sexual revolution, courtesy of their sexy new neighbours, Tom and Trina Decker, aided by Trina's collection of bathing suits and Tom's very suggestive Harry Reems moustache.

Today, however, CBS is playing catch-up with the Joneses — Showcase, FX, HBO and AMC, with their critically-acclaimed hour-long dramas, and they're determined to get a piece of that audience, broheem. They've come out swinging — pun intended — but there are a lot of wrong notes. Everything moves too fast, for one — episode one ends with the Millers already trailing the Deckers into the bedroom at their 4th of July party, overcoming their initial misgivings about this violation of their marriage vows without much of a backwards glance. The pacing feels a bit frog-marched, and some of the characterizations — especially Miriam Shor as Janet Thompson, Susan's uptight soon-to-be-former-best friend — far too tidy.

They also treat us to Fleetwood Mac's Go Your Own Way blaring from a radio at a teenage beach party, when the single wouldn't be released until that Christmas. The choice of nearly wall-to-wall soundtrack tunes — Captain & Tennille, Bowie, Chicago, Rita Coolidge — also feels a bit obvious, and I wonder if procuring the rights for all of this Top 40 tunage will either make the DVD box set too pricey, or prompt the last-minute substitution of cheesy cover versions.

One thing they got right, at least, is that junior high girls were tough — far tougher than the boys, and I have the mental scars to prove it.

Rick McGinnis writes about music, movies, books and television, but not opera.

Strangers meeting is great for blind dates, but hiding out? In this new episode, strangers Mike Sage and Simone Crook better bond quickly if they're going to outwit tracker Terry Grant. She's an environmentalist; he's a film critic. Can they get it together enough to make it through northern British Columbia ahead of Grant? 9 PM on OLN

Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?
Edward Albee's startling Broadway play about the cocktail party from hell reaches the movie screen with most of its corrosive power intact, as a frustrated academician's wife and her ineffectual husband subject a younger college professor and his wife — as well as each other — to scathing, alcohol-fueled mind games during a late-night gathering. Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton, Sandy Dennis and George Segal star. 11:30 AM on PIX

HOROSCOPE

ARIES | March 21-April 20
Be responsible when more work comes in. An intruder's disgraceful conduct is embarrassing. Corniness shows an emotional bond.

TAURUS | April 21-May 21
A love affair moves onto daring ground. Take advantage of available low rates. Compromising with a vender can't succeed.

GEMINI | May 22-June 21
Give back that which doesn't belong to you. You can calm a situation by asking for help. A reluctance to commit is very evident.

CANCER | June 22-July 22
Wait for a loved one to make the first move. Fatigue puts evening plans on the skids. Have patience with newlyweds.

LEO | July 23-Aug. 23
Matters will come to a head in a drama. Apologize for taking someone for granted. Be gracious when you're complimented.

VIRGO | Aug. 24-Sept. 22
A woman is making mountains out of molehills. You'll sleep better with a clear conscience. Luxuries will have more appeal.

LIBRA | Sep. 23-Oct. 23
Make your wishes known to all. There is a powerful person behind the scenes. Those who know your work will offer compliments

SCORPIO | Oct. 24- Nov. 22
Domestic battles result in power struggles. You are the focus of every encounter. A romantic life is confounded by sentimentality.

SAGITTARIUS | Nov. 23- Dec. 21
Everything you need will be available. A bully takes a welcome break. A stress related headache will fade away.

CAPRICORN | Dec. 22-Jan. 20
Nervousness is expressed by a powerful man. Objectivity develops after an intense debate. Don't disappoint anyone with bad behaviour.

AQUARIUS | Jan. 21-Feb. 18
A despondent person admires your nerve. Your enthusiasm will conquer all resistance. A phony braggart should be avoided.

PISCES | Feb. 19-Mar. 20
Tactless comments will work to your advantage. Delay things if you're reluctant to make promises.

instructions

The digits 1 through 9 will appear exactly once in each row, each column, and each zone. (A zone is an outlined 3x3 grid within the larger puzzle grid. There are nine of these zones in the puzzle.) Do not enter a digit into a box if it already appears elsewhere in the same 3x3 zone, or in the same row across the puzzle, or column down the puzzle.

Together again

According to Tommy Lee, he and ex Pamela Anderson are giving it another go. "Pamela and the kids have moved in with me," he told Rolling Stone. "We've only given it a try 800 times – 801, here we go."

And how do their two sons, Brandon and Dylan, feel about having mom and dad back together? "You can tell on the kids' faces – they're happy when we're together."

Bulletproof Cruise-ing

Tom Cruise's most important mission is keeping his family safe. According to intouchweekly.com, the 45-year-old superstar has a fleet of expensive cars and all of them are equipped with bulletproof windows. "It sounds like he's taken a page out of one of his action movies," explains an insider. "Tom's vehicles look perfectly normal, but in reality they are more like armored trucks." All of Tom's chauffeurs are professionally trained drivers, says the insider, so they can get him out of traffic problems and protect him from possible trouble. Still, he often prefers to drive his wife, Katie Holmes, and his three children himself. "Tom is a car nut," the insider adds.

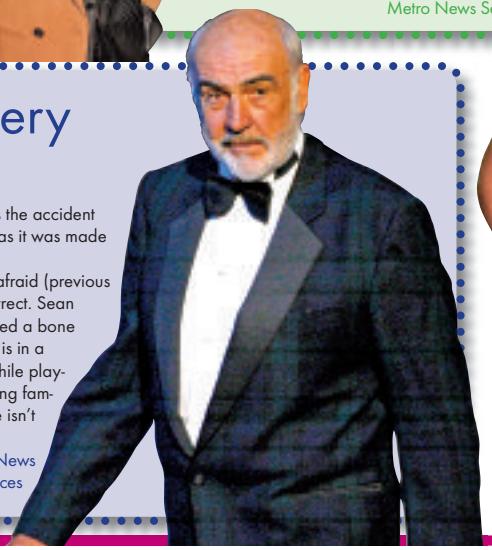
Rep denies Connery is in hospital



A representative for former James Bond star Sir Sean Connery has denied the actor is in hospital nursing a fractured ankle – revealing the star is only suffering from a minor shoulder injury.

The 77-year-old reportedly fell and injured himself during a game of golf in Mount Kisco, New York on Friday and was subsequently admitted to Northern Westchester Hospital for treatment.

But Connery's spokeswoman Nancy Seltzer says the accident was not as serious as it was made out to be.

She said: "I'm afraid (previous reports are) not correct. Sean Connery has chipped a bone in his shoulder and is in a sling. He tripped while playing golf and is visiting family in New York. He isn't in hospital."

The Keys to motherhood?

Alicia Keys wants to adopt. According to femalefirst.co.uk, the singer admires Angelina Jolie for adopting son Maddox from Cambodia, Zahara from Ethiopia and Pax from Vietnam and is considering following in her footsteps.

Keys, 27, said: "I think adoption is important to consider. That is what I really admire about Angelina Jolie. I think it's beautiful the way she embraces the children of the world.

"We are all one. We're not as separate as we sometimes think. So I possibly would adopt, when I'm more in the motherhood stage of my life."

Alicia also says she has always loved spending time with children and believes it is important to encourage their ideas and creative sides.

She added: "I've always loved kids. Kids are so important. It's important to nurture and spend time with them and listen to them."

Myers created Guru voice to cheer up sick pals

Mike Myers created the voice for his new movie's character Pitka to cheer ill friends up, according to imdb.com.

The funnyman has been working on his The Love Guru character for years and came up with the comic spiritual leader's Indian voice in an effort to give sick pals a laugh.

He explains, "The Seat Of The Soul was a book I read that I saw on Oprah and I loved it.

"This is a guy who was a green beret and he was also a physicist. When I talked about what I was reading philosophically, this mellifluous voice would emerge.

"My friends loved it and, in fact, would ask me to call them when they were not feeling well in that voice: 'You have a cold?'

"This is the universe telling you to be with yourself because the only way out is in.'"

In the upcoming movie Pitka attempts to help a Toronto Maple Leafs player overcome personal problems.

Kid Rock hospitalized

Kid Rock was rushed to the hospital minutes before he was to head on stage Friday at a music festival in England, according to People.com.

Organizers of the Download Festival said the rocker, 37, had been hospitalized in Nottingham, which is 100 miles north of London. He was suffering from stomach cramps and dehydration, his spokesman told the music magazine NME.

He had reportedly attended a late-night event at Central London's Whisky Mist nightclub that had continued into the early hours of June 13.

The performer had stirred controversy in the U.K. earlier in the week after telling a black interviewer that he thought the confederate flag was "cool."

Keira's mom slams media for anorexia rumours

Keira Knightley's screenwriter mother Sharman MacDonald has hit out at media rumours suggesting her daughter is suffering from anorexia – comparing the press to "playground bullies."

Knightley has long been dogged by rumours that her waif-like figure is the result of an eating disorder, but she has always denied this – blaming her genes for her naturally svelte figure.

Last year, the 23-year-old successfully sued a British tabloid newspaper for publishing an article that accused her of being anorexic and setting a bad example to young girls.

And the star's mother MacDonald can't understand why the media is so obsessed with her daughter's weight.

She tells British newspaper The Sunday Times, "She's always been thin. She's her daddy's daughter, with his long body.

"It's a playground situation that we're looking at with the press – it's a form of bullying – but what can we do?"
